PERFORMANCE WORKSHOP

'No Way Out' Audition Workshop

Time: 11:00 AM-12:30 PM
Location: The Carver Center
Teaching Artist: Stephen Carver
For Ages: Adults (Ages 18+)

The second show of our new-this-season Carver Center Studio Series is told through a collection of letters along with images projected onstage telling one family's journey during WWII. Director Stephen Carver will lead participants through a specialized Reader's Theatre workshop to learn to connect to the story and communicate it clearly to the audience. This is a great way to learn more about this emotional play and prepare to audition.

AUDITIONS & SYNOPSIS

Audition Dates: December 10th & 11th at 7:00 PM
Performance Dates: February 16 - February 25, 2018
Performance Location: The Carver Center Studio
Director: Stephen Carver

No Way Out is the true story of the author's family which was geographically torn apart during World War II, where their only means of communicating with each other was through their letters. About 500 letters were later found and translated, chronicling the events taking place in Germany starting in the summer of 1938. No Way Out explores the family's struggle to survive the anti-Jewish laws and measures in Nazi Germany, while at the same time struggling to find legal ways to emigrate out of their homeland, which quickly becomes more and more oppressive. The play portrays the family's attempt to understand their circumstances amidst deception, confusion, and decisions made on very little information. Told through the reading of a collection of the letters, along with images projected onstage, No Way Out is a haunting reminder of our past and is not to be missed.
